NEW YORK DAY BY DAY.
By CHARLES HENRY ADAMS.

A Big Outlook.

New York, Feb. 3.—Three billion three hundred million dollars is the figure at which the collector of the port of New York estimates the export business of the United States for the coming year.

"At present," declares Mr. Malone, "the value of exports from New York ranges from $2,000,000 to $6,000,000 a day. At this rate the total value of exports passing through this port for the year 1915 will reach $1,300,000,000. The port of New York handles about 40 per cent of the export trade of the country."

Four hundred million dollars increase in exports means enormous demands upon producing plants of various kinds. Extension of business, employment of more labor in a hundred fields, quickly has a tonic effect upon thousands of minor contributory industries. Sooner or later millions of individuals will find themselves better off.

A country with such a prospect must be roused in spite of itself. No depression can spoil the start; no doubts retard the pace.

The Negro Sees It.

"Our men folks is foun' out that they can't eat cotton." The wife of a negro farmer in the South thus put the truth in a nutshell for the benefit of the Tuskegee Negro Conference last week.

Some of the women folks, if we may believe the Evening Post's correspondent, have known better all the time. This particular woman persuaded her husband to raise turkeys and hogs enough to be able to sell a few each week and still have some left for home use.

A speaker from Hampton Institute gave figures to show the shortsightedness of Southern farmers:

"For every dollar's worth of cotton we grow we raise only 40c worth of all other crops. Investigation has shown that there are 329,000 farms of negroes on which there are no cattle of any kind; 200,000 on which no poultry is raised; 140,000 on which no corn is raised; 750,000 farms grow no oats; 500,000 produce no sweet potatoes, and on 200,000 farms there are no gardens of any sort."

Negro farmers are for the most part tenants. The conference "respectfully requests of planters, bankers and other representatives of financial interests of the South that more opportunities be given negro tenants to grow crops other than cotton."

This is exactly the sort of talk the South must listen to if it wants to be self-sustaining and not have to come whining to the rest of the country for help whenever the cotton market is bad. And nobody has better grasped the practical side of the situation or put the fact more cogently than these Tuskegee negroes.

George D. Marshall, government highway engineer, has gone to Austin to attend the midwinter convention of the Texas State Good Roads Association, where he will have charge of the engineering school. From there he will go to Waco to address the County Judges' Association, which meets at Waco Thursday and Friday of this week.

LEAGUE MEMBERSHIP HAS RAPID GROWTH

Work of Enlisting Will Continue Through This Week—Committees Do Good Work.

Actual work by the membership committee has begun and by referring to the list below will indicate just how well they are succeeding. This committee consists of twenty ladies who have agreed to sacrifice time to achieve the work that the league has undertaken and they will succeed. It is not the intention of any member of the committee to miss or pass up anyone in the city, and if such happens it is an oversight and should not be regarded otherwise. While all the committee were unable to start yesterday as agreed, however the few who were unable to work are out today and the work will not lag.

Reports from the committee who worked the east side of Main street, composed of Mesdames Emory and Cole, were very encouraging and a little less than one hundred signed up and paid their fee yesterday. Especial mention is made of two contributors who gave $5 each, one of whom was our former townsman and old friend, Dr. George R. Tabor, who so generously responds to all public enterprises and has not lost that big heart which was so characteristic of him during the years of his residence in our midst.

AS THE NEWS BREAKS

(By Associated Press.)

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 3.—The first platform demand to reach the Legislature—the tenant farmer bill—has been introduced in the Senate by Senator McGregor of Austin and in the House by Representatives Reeves and Bagby. Governor Ferguson approved the bill before it was sent to the Legislature. It would provide that any landlord who charges more than one-third of the value of the grain or more than one-fourth the value of cotton raised on rented land would be subject to heavy penalties, and such contract with tenants become null and void. Under the proposed law landlords would be allowed preference liens on crops for rents, value of farm implements and such animals as he may furnish tenants. There is prospect of a fight over the bill in the House.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 3.—Among the more important matters to be acted upon at the present session of the Legislature is the question of divorce—ment of the University of Texas and the Agricultural and Mechanical College. In both branches of the Legislature joint resolutions providing for constitutional amendments to this end have been introduced. The divorce resolution would provide in case the proposed amendment was adopted by the people, that the Legislature at its first session thereafter shall make an equitable division of the State permanent endowment fund of the University between that institution and the college. Friends of the Agricultural and Mechanical College are in favor of the divorce, according to reports here.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 3.—Never before in the history of the State has there been so many lobbyists, or as they are generally termed, members of the "Third House," in Austin during a legislative session, according to many legislators. There are over 300 already registered under a joint resolution requiring them to give their names, addresses and the character of legislation for which they are working. Those who fail or refuse to register are subject to expulsion from committees. There have been charges that many such lobbyists are in the capital and efforts are being made to "dislodge" them.

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 3.—The Texas Farmers' Union convention adjourned today, leaving the problem of financing the 1915 cotton crop to its officers. The officers will try to secure loans from banks.

RAILROAD NOTES.

Railroads in the Pittsburg district say that the passenger business is at the lowest ebb it has reached in years. Shipbuilders on the northeast coast of England have so many orders booked that few can now take contracts for delivery this year.

Officials of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg Railroad have notified their employees that they expect them to be not only safe and reliable railroad men, but valuable citizens as well.

Figures just issued by the National Highways Protective Society reveal that grade crossing accidents in New York cost 159 lives during 1914, 134 in 1913 and 107 in 1912.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is giving its big L-1 engines a tryout at Derry, Pa. This is the largest type of locomotive in freight traffic on the Pennsylvania except special engines at various mountain points for special service.

serious mountain points for special service.

Railways in Great Britain kill in accidents for which the passenger is in no way responsible one passenger for every 72,000,000 carried, while those of the United States kill one for every 4,900,000 passengers carried.

A plan to colonize 50,000 Belgians in Oklahoma under the supervision of the Catholic Church and to build a railroad 172 miles long connecting Muskogee and Oklahoma City, along which these people may conduct extensive farming and find a market in the largest two cities of the State, is rapidly taking form.
